Editors Dispatch: Herewith I hand you solution of problem published in your issue of the 18th instant: The amount realized by the sale of bond. $900, being reduced $200 per annum by the payments required, the vendor would have the use of $900 the first year, $700 the second, $500 the third, $300 the fourth, and $100 the fifth. Add these several amounts and we have $2,500, or an average of $500. The amount of interest paid the first year would be $60; the second, $48; the third, $36; the fourth, $24; and the fifth, $12-or $180 in all. Add discount, $100, and we have $280 paid for the use of $2,500, or an average of $56 on $500. To find the rate we divide $2.500 into $280, or $500 into 256-result, 11 2-10 per cent. PERCENTAGE. Respectfully,

Editors Dispatch: In answer to your interest proposition I submit the following : Face of bond, $1,000, payable in five years at six per cent. interest. Whole amount of interest, $300; deduction by sale of bond, $100, which increases the rate one-third, or two per cent., thereby making it eight per cent. In proof at eight per cent, yearly interest, $80; five years, $400. Or, if you consider the rate on what he realized, say 2900, it is 8 8-9 per cent. W. S. T. Yours. RICHMOND, November 14, 1878.

RICHMOND, November 14, 1878. Editors Dispatch: Answer to the arithmetical problem in last Wednesday's Dispatch: Interest on the $1,000 at 6 per cent. for five years amounts to $440; interest paid. $540. The amount paid for the use of $900 for five years is $540; the rate 12 per cent; the answer, 12 per cent. Yours,

[For the Dispatch.] Answer to arithmetical problem in yesterday's Dispatch: Interest on $900, less $200 every year for five years, at six per cent., $150. Interest paid, $280. Then, by simple proportion— 150:230:6 to answer, 11 1-5. A. B. C. NOVEMBER 14, 1878. Editors Dispatch: The query in problem in your issue of Wednesday is for rate on debt of $1,000. Answer: Eight per cent. per annum; rate on amount received, $900, 6 2-9 per cent. [For the Dispatch.]

Answer to problem: 23 34-125 per cent. ABICISSA. RICHMOND, November 14, 1878.

When thielde-blows do lightly float
About the pasture-height,
And shrills the bawk a parting note,
And carens the freet at night.
Then hilly-hol though singing so,
And whistie as I may,
There comes again the old heart-pain
Through all the livelong day.

In high wind creaks the leafless tree,
And note the finding fern;
The knolls are dun as snow-clouds be,
And cold the sun does burn.
Then ho, hello! though calling so,
I cannot keep it down:
The tears arise unto my eyes,
And thoughts are chill and brown.

For lo! in the codars' dusky stoles, For 10.1 in the codars' disky stoles,
Where the sere ground-vines weaves,
The partridge drums funereal rolls
Above the fullen leaves.
And bip, hip, to'l though cheering so,
It stills no whit the pain;
For drip, drip, drip, from bare branch tip,
I bear the year's last rain.

So drive the cold cows from the bill, And call the wet sheep in.
And call the wet sheep in.
And let their stamping clatter fill
The barn with warming din.
And ho, folk, ho! though it is so
That we no more may roam.
We still will find a cheerful mind
Aroand the fire at home!

A week ago, and as you travelled through Illinois, there was a candidate waiting to help you off the train at every station, anxious to carry your valise to the hotel for you, and give you a personal introduction to the landlord, bidding that great man to give you the big room with the open fireplace. And to-day? You can get off the train and carry your trunk to the hotel quicker than you can find a dray, the landlord stares coldly at you, pretends to be unable to decipher your signature, looks amazed when you say you are going to stay all night, and casually dusts with his handkerchief the glass face of the placard that reads, "All transient guests are expected"
